40 Years Makes a Difference!!

NLP Practitioner Training Program

Our vast experience training Practitioners of NLP all over the world makes this a very special training program. NLP is based on an understanding of how your brain works and learns, and how that affects your skills and abilities. You'll discover how learning is tied to the past, and to changing the present. For this reason, you will not only gain a mastery of the information presented, but also learn to affect the very fabric of change itself—and create the kind of future you really deserve.

Most professionals have said that they learned far more in this course than in all their years of graduate study, and it was more worthwhile learning as well.

In the NLP Practitioner Training Program you will

- ◆ Learn to associate subtle cues and signals people give with specific internal processing of information
- ◆ Learn how to overcome traumatic events in life and help others who were victims of trauma
- ◆ Learn to replace unwanted thoughts and behaviors with more desirable ones quickly and effectively
- ◆ Understand how people process information internally in each sensory system
- ◆ Learn to identify sequences of events people go through in their thinking to accomplish specific tasks
- ◆ Identify and change sequences and strategies that are ineffective or troublesome
- ◆ Develop and isolate strategies that are useful for any specific task or problem
- ◆ Identify and use effective learning strategies and help others do so, as well
- ◆ Identify more barriers to effective communication, and learn to overcome them
- ◆ Learn the basic linguistic model of asking questions based on the specific language pattern used by another person
- ◆ Connect internal sensory experience to specific kinds of language usage
- ◆ Direct your own, or another person's, thinking by asking specific kinds of questions
- ◆ Change problem thinking or behavior based on the structure of specific language patterns
- ◆ Develop well-formed goals and outcomes based on specific criteria useful in any situation
- ◆ Learn the structure of hypnotic communication
- ◆ Develop the skill to help someone into a hypnotic trance for clinical purposes
- ◆ Learn to utilize hypnotic trance for overcoming a variety of problems and improving situations
- ◆ Enhance your sensory acuity, learning and memory using hypnotic techniques
- ◆ Control pain and other physiological variables through altered states of consciousness
- ◆ Achieve enhanced communication through hypnotic language patterns on both the conscious and unconscious levels
- ◆ Learn the classic forms of hypnotic induction
- ◆ Learn the standard forms of hypnotic treatment with NLP
- ◆ Learn techniques of metaphor and analogy in communication to enhance learning and transfer of information
- ◆ Learn from past traumas and how to change them into new opportunities for growth
- ◆ Develop skills for specific interventions and problem solving

The training is primarily experiential—a combination of lecture, class discussion, demonstrations of communication and change techniques, and exercises. There are reading and other assignments given between each training segment to help you use the skills in your daily activities.

This course is available for those who have completed the NLP Intensive Training course(s). These include the assessment for certification as a Practitioner of NLP.
